MEDICINAL.

CAST OUT
the disorders, diseases, and weaknesses peculiar to women by the prompt action of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. A woman's beauty depends on her health—beauty in this case can be purchased. A bad complexion, a muddy skin, a wrinkled face and sunken eyes, follow the disorders of the woman's functions. Cupid is in demand for healthy woman—not for sick and ailing ones. The "Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, purifying, tonic, and a strengthening agent to be used in all those distressing troubles which make woman's life miserable. You find relief from sleeplessness, backache, and bearing-down sensations. It's a medicine prescribed by an eminent physician for those nervous conditions brought on by functional disorders—such as Nervous Prostration, Excitability, Fainting Spells, Dizziness, and Vertigo's Dance. In every case of "female complaint" if it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Elephants in a Stampede.
There was a stampede at the winter quarters of the Barnum & Bailey circus in Bridgeport, Conn., Sunday. Thirty elephants of the show went on a rampage, and for a time that portion of the city was in terror.

When the circus train arrived in the city Saturday night, the cars containing the elephants were placed on the tracks near the winter quarters.

Sunday morning, when the unloading of the animals began, one herd of elephants, 13 in number, was placed near the buildings, and a short distance away the remainder were herded together in charge of a keeper.

Without warning one of the elephants in the smaller herd began a loud trumpeting, and started in the direction of the winter quarters. The others followed. The crowd of men and boys who were watching the unloading of the animals fled in terror.

The few keepers were powerless to stop the animals, once they started, and all they could do was to watch the clouds of dust and the forms of the elephants as they hurried along toward their old quarters.

The larger herd, containing seventeen elephants, became restless when the others started. The trumpeting seemed to be a call for them to join them on the way to their old home.

The keepers endeavored to control their charges, but prod as much as they could not keep them under control, and in a short time the thirty were hurrying across the field surrounding the winter quarters.

The distance they had to pass was short. There was no obstruction until they reached the high fence surrounding the winter quarters, and they went through that without difficulty and across the yard to the long, low buildings where they had passed the winter.

The door leading to the stalls of the elephants was closed. The first of the hurrying animals dashed it aside as though it was made of paper and passed into the stalls. All of the thirty followed and went to their places as loved and went to their places as though they were obeying their keepers. It was a long time after they reached the buildings the trumpeting continued.

J. A. Bailey was in a private car when the news of the outbreak reached him. He hurried to the winter quarters, and a consultation with Head Keeper McDonald followed.

The disposition of the animals was unknown, and caution was taken in the manner in which he started to secure control of the herd.

A plan to feed them where they would not be contained by Keeper McDonald. He was determined to quell the rebellion at once.

The big elephant Mandarin was selected as the subject.

The sharp spear of the keeper was fastened into the trunk of the elephant, and, without opposition, the docile animal followed along. Other keepers took charge of the remainder of the herd, and no further trouble was experienced in taking them to the tents and securing them.

When the trick horses were unloaded they also showed a disposition to break away and return to the old quarters, but the attendants were on the lookout and turned them in another direction.

One of the things in the pathway of the herd of hungry elephants was a huge box containing the statue of the late T. T. Barham, which was to be placed at Seaside Park in a short time.

It was knocked over, but when raised to position later in the day was found to have escaped injury.

THIRCE SHE SAW A MAN HANGING.
A dispatch from Sweet Home, Texas, says: A mother's dread presentiment was terribly and literally fulfilled in the death by hanging of her wandering son. One day Mrs. Harrington, the mother of a well-to-do planter, alarmed the family by fainting away at a window. On coming to she declared that she had seen a man's corpse hanging from an oak near, and she described his dress minutely. She twice fainted afterward on seeing the same vision.

A few days ago a tramp applied to Mr. Harrington for work, but was harshly repulsed. The old lady noticed that he was dressed as she had seen the figure swaying in the tree branches. Much disturbed, she offered the fellow money to leave, but he went to town, got frenzied drunk and then hanged himself on the Harrington tree. When cut down he was identified as an elder son and brother, who was renounced during the war for entering the federal army, and was supposed to be dead.

Mrs. Harrington has been prostrated ever since and is dying broken-hearted.

The Trouble Over.
A prominent man in town exclaimed the other day: "My wife has been wearing out her life from the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint and Indigestion. Her case baffled the skill of our best physicians. After using three packages of BACON'S CURE she is almost entirely well. Keep your blood in a healthy condition by the use of this great vegetable compound. Call on E. S. Leadbeater & Sons, sole agents, and get a trial package free. Large size 50c.

Do you know what a "forced sale" means? Do you know this is the first we've had in twenty-five years? and telling you this is giving you an insight into our business beyond which you do not care to go. This is a "forced sale" in every sense of the word—a slaughter of new seasonable goods. Owing to the backwardness of this season we are overstocked, and are forced to sell. We intend to rip the "vital existence" out of the price. The mere mention of a "forced sale" of our immense stock right in the heart of the busy season must create a furor amongst the shopping public. No need for you to go to Washington. Watch our sale for the coming three weeks. We state plainly and guarantee our statement that the prices below quoted present from one-fourth to one-fifth actual original cost. To this we add our reputation.

Read carefully every item and call at the opening hour of sale, WEDNESDAY MORNING at 8:30. Our store will be closed Tuesday in order to arrange stock.
